

Lutfur Rahman Khan, flexible pipes, pipe material, pipe wall thickness, limit state, excessive deflection, probability, pipe materials, Monte Carlo simulation, algorithm, design point, Probabilistic failure analysis, corrosion, British Standards Institution, ASCE, reliability, pipe wall, system reliability, pipe diameter, reliability analysis, Kong Fah Tee, Journal of Engineering Mechanics Division, Probabilistic analysis, International Conference, standard normal distribution, American Lifeline Alliance, Plastic Pipe Institute, state function, Bending stress, American Lifelines Alliance, American Society of Civil Engineers, Journal of Transport Engineering, failure event, Structural Engineering, sensitivity analysis, elastic modulus, failure rate, buckling, probability of failure, wall thickness, failure analysis, Journal of Pipeline Systems Engineering, Concrete Pipeline Systems Association, Journal of Transportation Engineering, American Water Works Association, underground pipelines, soil properties

Probabilistic failure analysis of underground flexible pipes