

cocoa bean, equipment industries, Monilia Pod Rot, Latin America, Westpark Drive, McLean, VA, chemical management, climatic conditions, cultural practices, pod, spray coverage, excessive amounts, disease management, world population, chocolate manufacturers, sensitivity ranges, Environmental Protection Agency, protectant fungicides, Brasier & Griffin, copper concentrations, soil surface, copper fungicide, Research Institute, bean production, Plano da Lavoura Cacaueira, Theobroma cacao, ROBERT H. FULTON, American Cocoa Research Institute, copper fungicides

The cacao disease trilogy: black pod, Monilia pod rot, and witches'-broom