European integration, integration, Europe, television news, European Union, public opinion, Britain, research, study, Blumler, the Netherlands, framing effects, stimulus material, journalists, content analysis, variables, European citizens, Denmark, Eurobarometer, independent variable, observations, European affairs, cross-national perspective, Gurevitch & Blumler, European Monetary Union, European countries, European Monetary System, political integration, political system, Gurevitch, media sources, Eurobarometer Candidate, EU countries, media exposure, media content, Public opinion polls, public support, Comparative research, Blumler & Gurevitch, experiments, packaging news, Comparative studies.

Framing Europe: television news and European integration.