

New York, Gettysburg, Army of the Potomac, Hudson Valley Regiments, Third Corps, Van Santvoord, Gettysburg--The Second Day, Chancellorsville, Gettysburg National Military Park, regiment, Colonel Ellis, New York Monuments Commission, McPherson's Ridge, Captain Cook, Cemetery Hill, Pfanz, Esick G. Wilber, Gettysburg National Military Park Library, The Hudson River Valley Review, Alpheus Williams, First Corps, Battle of Chancellorsville, Huguenot Historical Society, Sickles, Hudson River Valley Review, James S. Wadsworth, John Buford, Amelia Harmon, Seminary Ridge, Second Corps, Emmitsburg Road, Hudson River Valley Review Williams, Cemetery Ridge, Twelfth Corps, Barksdale, Lieutenant Colonel Jacob Broadhead Hardenburgh, Iron Brigade, Oak Ridge, Peach Orchard, Captain Ambrose N. Baldwin, Confederate Division, John Reynolds, Hudson Valley, Eseek G. Wilber, Civil War combat, Gen Reynolds, United States Sharpshooters, John Bacheider, Charles Stewart, Colonel Theodore Gates, enlisted men, Lieutenant Colonel Charles Weygant, Private Lewis Coe Bevier, Rappahannock River, Bevier, Audrey J. Ladd, United States War Department, Captain Nicoll, U.S. Army Military History Institute, Union Regiment File, Wilber, 120th New York Inf, Georgia brigade, General John Bell Hood, National Military Park, New York Inf, 120th New York Infantry, brigade commander

Awful beyond description: The Ordeal of the Hudson Valley Regiments in the Army of the Potomac in 1863