political process, institutions, online courses, Columbia University, Tony Bates, online universities, distance education, online teaching, communication, Canadian Virtual University, traditional media content, political activity, political system, Pew Internet and American Life Project, Manuel Castells, Wesley Clark, Howard Dean, political purposes, campaign websites, information sets
The network society: A cross-cultural perspective